Instructor Khasan Khankeldiyev

Sentence Patterns

Building blocks of your story

Pattern One: Simple sentence

Independent clause

Example: Snow fell

Pattern Two: Compound Sentence

Independent clause, cc independent clause

Coordinating conjunctions: and, but, for, or, nor, so, yet.

Example: Snow fell, but it felt warm.

Pattern Three: Compound Sentence

Independent clause; Independent clause

Example: Snow fell; it felt warm, though

Pattern Four: Compound Sentence

Independent clause; independent marker, independent clause

Independent markers: therefore, moreover, thus, consequently, however, also.

Example: Snow fell; therefore, it felt cold

Pattern Five: Complex Sentence

Dependent marker + dependent clause,
Independent clause

Dependent markers: because, before, since, while, although, if, until, when, then, after, as, as if.

Example: When snow fell, it felt cold

Pattern Six: Compound-Complex Sentence

Two Independent clauses and one dependent clause

Example: When snow fell, it felt cold, but I liked anyway

Pattern Seven: Complex Sentence

ANY CLUE?

Reference

- Purdue Online Writing Lab. (n.d.). Welcome to the Purdue OWL. Purdue University. https://owl.english.purdue.edu/